

Probate Acquisition Intelligence

Positioning, Pricing, and 90-Day Validation Plan for a County-Exclusive Probate Opportunity Service

Prepared as a strategic business plan for launching and validating a premium county-exclusive probate opportunity service.

Primary audience: professional real-estate wholesalers and acquisitions teams seeking exclusive, research-backed probate acquisition opportunities.

Version: Launch Strategy Draft | September 2026

A premium acquisition intelligence model built around county exclusivity, completed opportunity files, decision-maker clarity, and a 90-day validation path to recurring revenue.

Business Plan Overview

This business plan outlines the positioning, pricing model, launch strategy, and commercial terms for a county-exclusive Probate Acquisition Intelligence service serving professional real-estate wholesalers and acquisitions teams.

The plan is designed to validate demand through a paid 90-day founding county partnership, while preserving premium positioning through exclusivity, defined delivery standards, and measurable acquisition outcomes.

1. Executive Summary

This document presents a refined strategy for a county-exclusive Probate Acquisition Intelligence service. The recommendation is to position the offer as a premium acquisition workflow rather than a probate data product or generic lead list. The service should emphasize exclusive county access, completed Probate Opportunity Files, decision-maker identification, evidence-backed research, and measurable impact on acquisition activity.

The strongest value proposition is not access to filings; it is the ability to turn messy probate records into researched, decision-maker-ready opportunities that help a wholesaler move faster from record review to seller conversation.

2. Market Problem and Positioning Strengths

1. Sell Time-to-Contract, Not Information

Most probate vendors sell individual inputs:

- Probate filings
- Skip tracing
- Property data
- Lead lists

This offer should be framed differently:

“We’re not giving you names. We’re giving you opportunities that are already researched and mapped to the person who can actually sell the property.”

This creates a higher-value proposition because the client is buying speed, clarity, and execution readiness—not just information.

2. Solve a Real Probate Research Problem

Probate wholesalers often face issues that raw filings do not resolve:

- 50 heirs on title
- No personal representative appointed
- Property owned by a trust
- Estate still open
- Multiple siblings fighting
- Executor with no authority

A raw probate filing rarely answers these questions. A strong Probate Opportunity File does.

That is the defensible advantage: the service identifies the person or path most likely to produce a valid acquisition conversation.

3. Use County Exclusivity to Create Scarcity

County exclusivity is one of the strongest pricing and positioning levers in the model.

Instead of:

“We have probate leads.”

You can say:

“We partner with one probate buyer per county.”

That immediately:

- Increases perceived value

- Reduces competitive pressure
- Justifies premium pricing
- Creates urgency

A wholesaler can replace a data vendor, but cannot easily replace an exclusive intelligence partner.

3. Market Positioning

The service should be categorized around acquisition outcomes, not research activity.

Avoid positioning the offer as a generic probate intelligence service. Stronger alternatives include:

Recommended Name: Probate Acquisition Intelligence

Alternative Name: Probate Opportunity Intelligence

Both options tie the service directly to revenue generation. The strongest choice is Probate Acquisition Intelligence because it speaks to the buyer's goal: contracts, not research.

4. Messaging and Offer Language

Option 1: Direct

We convert raw probate filings into contract-ready acquisition opportunities.

Option 2: Outcome Focused

Stop researching probate. Start talking to decision-makers.

Option 3: Premium

Exclusive county-level probate opportunities, fully researched and mapped to the people who can actually sell the property.

This is the strongest option for premium positioning because it combines exclusivity, completed research, and decision-maker access in one sentence.

Option 4: Revenue Focused

More signed contracts. Less probate research.

This version is short enough for ads and clear enough to use as a homepage subhead or outbound email hook.

5. Product Deliverable

Avoid calling the deliverable a lead or a report. Use language that signals completion, judgment, and acquisition readiness.

Recommended Deliverable: Opportunity Package

or

Alternative Deliverable: Probate Opportunity File

Example:

"This week's Broward County Opportunity Package contains 17 probate opportunities fully researched and ranked."

This language supports a premium perception because it frames the deliverable as a completed acquisition-ready package rather than a simple lead list.

6. Revenue Model and Pricing Strategy

Pricing should not be based primarily on records delivered because that would position the company as a data vendor.

Instead, pricing should reflect:

Exclusive Territory Access

For example:

- Broward County Exclusive
- Palm Beach Exclusive
- Miami-Dade Exclusive

The client isn't paying for 100 records.

They're paying for:

"Nobody else gets this research."

That's a completely different conversation.

7. Strategic Differentiation

The strategic moat is the ability to answer one question better than a generic data provider:

Very few can confidently answer: "Who can legally and practically sign this contract?"

This should become the centerpiece of the product narrative.

Authority-to-Sell Advantage

Anyone can pull probate filings.

Few can identify who actually has the authority to sell the property.

That's where the money is made.

8. Go-to-Market Website Positioning

The website should immediately communicate the business outcome, delivery standard, and exclusive nature of the offer.

Website Hero Message

We transform raw probate filings into exclusive, decision-maker-ready acquisition opportunities.

- Property verified
- Executor identified
- Heirs mapped
- Ownership researched
- Opportunity scored
- Evidence included

Your acquisitions team focuses on conversations, not courthouse research.

9. Strategic Recommendation

This is no longer a lead generation business.

It is no longer a data business.

It is not a SaaS company.

The strongest category description is:

Probate Acquisition Intelligence is an exclusive county-based service that converts raw probate filings into decision-maker-ready acquisition opportunities for professional probate wholesalers.

That positioning is sophisticated, hard to commoditize, and directly tied to the one metric your buyers care about:

Contracts generated from opportunities delivered.

10. County Exclusivity Pricing Model

Pricing Structure

The ideal client is an active residential real-estate wholesaler or acquisitions team that already buys distressed or inherited property, has a repeatable follow-up process, and can act quickly when a qualified probate opportunity is delivered. This offer is not designed for passive investors, casual buyers, or teams without the capacity to contact sellers and make offers.

A Probate Opportunity File is the completed deliverable for one qualified probate-related property opportunity. Each file should identify the probate case, matched property, ownership structure, likely authority or decision-maker path, contact information where available, priority score, known risks, and supporting evidence needed for the client to begin outreach without repeating the research.

Clients pay for four things:

1. Exclusive county access: No competing wholesaler receives the same completed opportunities during the contract term.
2. Research capacity: A defined number of completed Probate Opportunity Files per month.
3. Initial market setup: County-specific workflow development, source validation, filters, scoring rules, and delivery configuration.
4. Additional capacity: Overage pricing when qualified filing volume exceeds the included monthly amount.

Pricing should be based on the county's qualified probate opportunity volume, research complexity, source-access friction, and the client's ability to act on the delivered files. Population can support an initial estimate, but the final tier should be assigned only after a short county-volume audit.

Recommended Tiered Pricing

PLAN	FIT	MONTHLY	SETUP	CAPACITY	OVERAGE	DELIVERY	TERM
County Launch	Smaller or lower-volume counties	$2,000/month	$1,500	Up to 25/month	$85 each	Weekly	90 days
County Growth	Active suburban and mid-volume counties	$3,500/month	$2,500	Up to 50/month	$70 each	Weekly, with priority alerts	90 days

County Pro	Large, competitive counties with an established acquisitions team	$5,500/month	$4,000	Up to 85/month	$60 each	Twice weekly, with priority alerts	6 months after validation
Metro Exclusive	Major metro counties or unusually high filing volume	Starting at $8,500/month	Starting at $6,000	Custom, normally 125+ per month	Custom volume rate	Twice weekly or managed queue	6 to 12 months

Launch Pricing Note

The numbers above are recommended starting prices for market testing, not claims about current market rates. Final county pricing should be adjusted after measuring qualified filing volume, average research time, source costs, complexity, and client economics during the MVP.

What Counts as a Completed Opportunity

An item counts against the included monthly capacity only when the delivered file contains the required minimum standard:

- Probate case and source identified
- Real property matched to the estate or deceased owner
- Ownership structure documented
- Personal representative, executor, administrator, or likely controlling parties identified
- Likely decision-maker identified and clearly labeled
- Available contact information organized for outreach
- Priority score assigned
- Evidence trail linked or cited
- Known title, heir, authority, or complexity issue flagged

A filing that cannot be connected to real property does not count as a completed opportunity. It may be recorded in a separate research log for transparency.

Setup Fee Deliverables

The one-time setup fee covers:

- County court and property-record source mapping
- Filing intake workflow configuration
- Probate-to-property matching rules
- Client buy-box and exclusion criteria configuration
- Opportunity scoring calibration
- Delivery template and CRM field mapping
- Duplicate-suppression rules
- Evidence-trail format
- Initial backlog review, if included in the agreement
- Client onboarding and acquisitions-team handoff session

The setup fee should be paid before work begins and should not be credited against monthly service unless used as a specific sales concession.

Overage Rules

Overages should protect margin without creating billing surprises.

Recommended Policy

- Notify the client when the county reaches 80% of included monthly capacity.
- Continue processing up to the included limit automatically.
- Require written approval for billable overages, or allow the client to establish a preapproved monthly overage cap.
- Bill only for completed opportunities that meet the delivery standard.
- Rollovers are not included by default because research capacity is reserved monthly.
- Unprocessed qualified filings move to the next delivery period only if they remain timely and relevant.
- A client may upgrade tiers at any point. The higher included capacity begins with the next billing cycle unless otherwise agreed.

Recommended Overage Cap

Set the default overage cap at 20% of the plan's monthly fee unless the client chooses another amount. If demand repeatedly exceeds the plan for two consecutive months, move the account to the next tier rather than relying on permanent overages.

Add-Ons

ADD-ON	PRICE	PURPOSE
Historical Backlog Build	$75 to $125 per completed opportunity	Researches older filings outside the normal monthly intake.
Priority 48-Hour Research	$150 per accepted case	Accelerates a client-nominated opportunity.

Adjacent County Expansion Setup	50% of that county's normal setup fee	Adds another exclusive territory using the existing client workflow.
CRM Custom Integration or Import Mapping	Starting at $1,000	Covers custom fields, import structure, testing, and documentation.
Custom Buy-Box Scoring Model	Starting at $750	Adds client-specific equity, property, location, or complexity weights.
Monthly Acquisition Review	$500/month	Reviews outcomes, objections, scoring, and disposition feedback.
Outbound Campaign Preparation	Custom scope	Formats approved opportunity data for the client's outreach process without representing the service as a lead-generation agency.

11. Optional Performance Component

A performance component can be tested only where the contract structure and applicable rules have been reviewed appropriately.

Suggested hybrid model:

- Full monthly exclusivity fee
- Lower fixed success fee of $750 to $1,500 per closed acquisition contract sourced from a delivered opportunity
- Clear attribution window, such as the contract term plus a defined tail period
- Client reporting requirement for appointments, signed contracts, canceled contracts, and closings

Do not reduce the base fee too aggressively. The service incurs research cost whether the client's acquisitions team follows up effectively or not. The fixed fee pays for exclusivity and reserved research capacity; the performance fee rewards downstream results.

12. Legal and Compliance Boundaries

The service should avoid presenting legal conclusions to clients. Authority status, heir mapping, ownership issues, and probate case details should be delivered as research findings with source evidence and confidence labels, not as legal advice.

Client agreements should require lawful outreach, prohibit resale or redistribution of completed files, and clarify that the client is responsible for legal review before relying on any research for contracts, title decisions, or seller communications.

13. Commercial Terms

Founding County Partner

- One exclusive county
- 90-day validation term
- County Launch or County Growth pricing
- Setup fee paid upfront
- Monthly fee paid at the start of each service month

No automatic success fee applies during the first validation cycle.

- Direct access to the client-side acquisitions lead for feedback
- Weekly outcome reporting required from both sides
- Founding price may be locked for six additional months if the client renews immediately after validation

Exclusivity Conditions

Exclusivity should remain active only while the client:

- Pays on time
- Maintains the minimum contract term
- Provides disposition feedback
- Uses opportunities lawfully and according to the agreement
- Does not resell, redistribute, or sublicense the completed files

Define exclusivity narrowly. It should apply to the same completed opportunities within the named county and buyer category, not prevent the business from serving unrelated professionals, other counties, or noncompeting use cases.

Price Adjustment Triggers

Review pricing if any of the following occurs:

- Qualified opportunity volume materially exceeds the tier's capacity
- Average research time is materially higher than the initial model
- New paid data sources or court-access expenses are required
- The client expands the research standard or requested deliverables
- Turnaround expectations become more aggressive
- The county adds source friction, manual retrieval, or document fees

14. Financial Assumptions

The launch model assumes the business begins with one paid founding county partner and validates demand before expanding across additional counties. Revenue should be evaluated against research capacity, source-access cost, turnaround expectations, client utilization, and the number of completed opportunities that meet the delivery standard.

ASSUMPTION	ESTIMATE	IMPACT
Founding partner price	$3,000/month	Tests willingness to pay while remaining approachable for an active wholesaler.
Setup fee	$2,000 upfront	Funds market setup, source mapping, workflow buildout, and onboarding.
Included capacity	40 completed Opportunity Files/month	Creates a clear delivery promise and protects capacity planning.
Expected weekly delivery	Approximately 10 completed files/week	Keeps the client engaged and allows rapid feedback on scoring quality.
Overage pricing	$75 per approved completed opportunity	Protects margin when qualified county volume exceeds the plan.
Renewal target	6-month extension after validation	Converts a pilot-style launch into predictable recurring revenue.

15. 90-Day Implementation Timeline

PHASE	TIMING	OBJECTIVE	DELIVERABLES
Setup and Calibration	Days 1–15	Build the county workflow and confirm the client buy box.	Source map, scoring rules, delivery template, onboarding session, and initial backlog review.
Initial Delivery Sprint	Days 16–30	Deliver the first Opportunity Files and validate quality.	First weekly batches, client feedback loop, issue log, and scoring adjustments.
Validation Cycle	Days 31–60	Measure whether the client can act on delivered opportunities.	Weekly delivery rhythm, outcome reporting, overage monitoring, and monthly acquisition review.
Optimization Cycle	Days 61–75	Refine the workflow based on actual client disposition data.	Updated scoring model, exclusion rules, evidence format improvements, and priority alert criteria.
Renewal Decision	Days 76–90	Determine renewal, tier upgrade, or county expansion path.	Final scorecard, renewal recommendation, pricing review, and expansion plan if results support it.

--	--	--	---

16. Risks and Recommendations

RISK	IMPORTANCE	ACTION
Over-positioning as legal certainty	Probate authority and title questions can require professional legal review.	Use confidence labels, evidence trails, and contract language stating that files are research findings, not legal advice.
Client follow-up weakness	The service can deliver strong opportunities, but results depend on the client's acquisitions process.	Require weekly disposition reporting and qualify clients for speed, capacity, and outreach discipline before granting exclusivity.
County volume uncertainty	Some counties may not produce enough qualified opportunities to justify the tier.	Run a short county-volume audit before final tier assignment and use the launch period to validate actual throughput.
Research cost escalation	Manual retrieval, paid records, or source friction can reduce margin.	Include price-adjustment triggers for new source costs, higher research time, and materially expanded deliverables.
Exclusivity too broad	Overly broad exclusivity could limit future sales unnecessarily.	Define exclusivity by named county, buyer category, and completed opportunity type only.
Commoditization pressure	If the service is described as leads or data, buyers may compare it to cheaper vendors.	Keep the core message centered on acquisition readiness, decision-maker mapping, and exclusive county intelligence.

Positioning

We become your outsourced probate intelligence department for one county. Your team receives fully researched opportunities mapped to the people most likely to have the authority and practical ability to sell. During your active agreement, no competing wholesaler receives the same completed opportunities from us in that county.

This offer is high enough to test willingness to pay but contained enough for a credible founding partner to evaluate against the cost of internal research and lost acquisitions time.

18. Executive Conclusion

Probate Acquisition Intelligence has the strongest commercial potential when positioned as a premium acquisition-enablement service rather than a lead, data, or research product. The value is created by reducing ambiguity, identifying practical decision-maker paths, and giving a capable acquisitions team a faster route from courthouse information to seller conversations.

The recommended launch path is to secure one founding county partner under a paid 90-day validation agreement. This keeps the offer focused, protects execution capacity, and produces measurable evidence about county volume, research complexity, buyer follow-up quality, and willingness to renew at a recurring exclusivity price.

If the first county validates, the business should expand deliberately through additional exclusive counties, tiered pricing, and carefully defined add-ons while maintaining the core promise: completed, evidence-backed probate opportunities delivered to one qualified buyer per county.

The priority is not to prove that probate data exists. The priority is to prove that a disciplined, exclusive research workflow can produce acquisition-ready opportunities worth paying for every month.
